Roosevelt's Supporters Ready
For His Coming

TAFT MEN ARE STIRRED UP

Beside Issuing New Statement Showing
Taft Will Win on First Ballot, They Declare Roosevelt's Action Is an Indication of His Desperation.

Chicago, June 15.—Discussion of Theodore Roosevelt's imminent arrival in Chicago held the foreground to practically the exclusion of all other pre-convention activity to-day. The Roosevelt workers plan a great welcome to their leader to-night, and a mass meeting at which Col. Roosevelt is to be the chief speaker has been arranged for Monday night, in Chicago's biggest theatre. According to tentative plans, Roosevelt will remain here until the end of the convention, and it is believed he will attend the sessions and address the delegates in explanation of his attitude on the issues he has raised.

To the Taft leaders the announcement of Colonel Roosevelt's coming was in the nature of "a red flag to a bull." Director McKinley of the Taft campaign management issued a statement soon after Mr. Roosevelt's starting became known, in which he declared unequivocally that the certain Taft strength was 594 delegates, 54 more than enough for a nomination. He and all the other Taft leaders declared Roosevelt's coming was the surest possible indication of the desperation and knowledge of defeat. He asserted that at a conference of the Roosevelt people held Thursday afternoon, their most optimistic figuring showed a Roosevelt total of 78 votes short of the necessary 540.

More significant, however, was the table of delegates' figures which accompanied Mr. McKinley's statement. The Taft column included all of the contested delegations, 64 in number, from Texas, Virginia and Washington, upon whose cases the national committee has still to pass.

About the same time rumors were current everywhere that the Taft majority on the committee had decided definitely to give Taft every remaining vote within their power from the contests still pending before the committee.

Six More For Taft.

When the Republican national committee adjourned yesterday afternoon, the day's results were: Six more delegates for Taft, none for Roosevelt, the decisions being on the first Oklahoma district, the first Tennessee district and the ninth Tennessee district.

In contests between rival Taft delegations: South Carolina, first district, 2; Tennessee, first district, 2; 10th district, 2; Alaska, 2.

Total contests decided, 186; for Taft, 173; for Roosevelt, 13.

WHY HE RESIGNED.

J. R. Tierney's Reasons for Leaving

The people who wish to know the reason for my resignation as a member of the board of health will find it in the ten commandments as given below:

Thou shalt not compel the stone cutter to suffer with the cold over the river bank in winter, or in the summer to inebriate exposure.

Thou shalt not allow certain people to keep garbage in their back yards the year around.

Thou shalt not compel one church to have the doors swing out and allow the other church doors to swing in.

Thou shalt not try to save the lives of great criminals and suffer the innocent at home to die of neglect.

Thou shalt not allow anyone to connect sewers with the surface sewers.

Thou shalt not conspire to compel a poor old woman on Pearl street to dispose of her hens.

Thou shalt not allow the gas company to have shut-offs protruding in the sidewalks, causing people to trip.

Thou shalt not allow anyone to keep swine in a filthy condition in the city.

Thou shalt not allow plugged sewers in tenement houses for months and ignore the complaints of the people.

Thou shalt not take the oath of office without intending to do your duty.

SCORED BY LABOR MEN.
Vermont's Representatives in Congress
and Also Employers of Labor.

Nearly 200 people gathered around the music stand in the city park last night to listen to General Organizer Cal. Wyatt of the American Federation of Labor and Organizer Charles A. Mills of the Textile Workers of America. While expounding the condition of the situation of the strike of the woodworkers in Burlington, the speakers dwelt at length upon the necessity of the workmen of America awakening to the advisability of placing their own representatives in the Senate and House bodies of both the state and national legislative bodies. Alexander Ironside, chairman of the meeting, introduced Organizer Wyatt as the first speaker. In speaking of the situation at Burlington, Mr. Wyatt said that the workmen in the lumber mills at Burlington voluntarily ceased work on May 1, demanding a nine-hour working day, with the wages of a ten-hour day. He stated that the average wage of the workman never exceeds five dollars per week. "Think of the man doing his utmost to raise a family on that wage. It is hardly enough for a single person to secure the necessities of life."

Nearly a hundred of them had borne the ordeal as long as they desired and decided that they might as well starve not working as to starve laboring. About 100 men gathered in the labor bodies with the carpenters and teamsters. There have not ten men gone back to the mills that have not received just compensation for their labors complying with the union regulations. Many have left the city or found employment elsewhere. At present there are still 350 men out fighting for their demands.

The ceasing of labor on the part of the workmen has caused a loss of $35,000 to the city of Burlington. Last Sunday Burlington was surprised when over 300 workmen responded to the call at the carpenters' hall for the purpose of endorsing workmen for legislators to be sent from Burlington to represent the city in both the House and the Senate. The city of Burlington has long been run by politicians, which is the cause of the unfavorable working conditions of the city. The labor body named its candidates that are to run for the positions of representative and senator, and both are understood to have been endorsed by the Democratic party. The time has come when the laboring man has attained the intelligence and knowledge sufficient to permit him to elect a man, as the majority there is no more reason why the labor man's interests should not be protected from the gouging of capital.

There is hardly a man in our great legislative bodies that will vote for the cause of labor. There is U. S. Senator C. S. Page of this state, who is the calf-skinner of the country. He controls the calf-skin industry of the country. Every shoe that we buy we pay a tribute to Senator Page. Why should labor people support such a man as him? In a recent bill in the Senate in the interests of the working man, both the Vermont senators' votes were against the cause.

Organizer Wyatt also spoke of the child labor law of the state, stating that the factories did not comply with them, as there were statutes in the state regarding child labor that nullified each other. He said that Vermont should join in the progressive movement of the working body and vote for no man that did not possess a union card.

Chairman Ironside then introduced Organizer Mills. The speaker heartily thanked the people for the financial aid and loyalty of the Barre workmen during the strike of the textile workers at Utica a short time ago. To his observations, the working conditions in this state were worse than in New York state. The appeal for the cause of labor should not be made along party lines, but along the lines of direct legislation by the body of labor men. In the legislatures throughout the country, there are but few representatives of labor in legislative bodies. The majority to-day receives not its due representation, while the minority, the moneyed classes, have far too many of their side in the great bodies of the legislatures. The men that are graduated from college and enter the field of legal profession, as soon as admitted to the bar, advance themselves as politicians. This class compose the makers of laws. They have always led an idle life and the seldom thrown in contact with the laboring man, therefore know not the conditions of labor. We have the intelligence to interpret and understand statutes, and why should we not be able to compile them?

We hear the ever-sounding appeal for the conservation of our natural resources. What the people of the country to-day are most in need of is the conservation of humanity, that modeling which will bring people into manhood as honest citizens of integrity. We have the vote, and it is approaching, when we may be compelled to determine the laborer the ruler. In referring to the accomplishments of Vermont representatives in Washington Organizer Mills pointed out the stand of Congressman Plumley on labor questions. On the sitting in reference on the labor bills, Congressman Plumley voted favorably once, unfavorably once and four times he did not cast his vote. He is not only hostile to the workman, but he did not perform his duties conscientiously, declared the speaker. It is near time again for the elections, and the politicians will be around telling you how much they love you. Politicians are synonymous with the bear in the honey story. There was a bear that once loved a man; he loved him so well that once he squeezed the life out of him. Politicians will do the same. They will get to liking you so well that they will sap all the life out of you and pull you along with them.

It will be advisable for you, when you place a candidate or endorse one for the coming election, to see that he will support a platform that will establish labor department that will suffice for the inspection of factories, enforce an eight-hour day and devise a child labor law preventing women and children under 21 years of age from working over eight hours a day.

Several hundred grangers gathered at the Granite City driving park yesterday afternoon and listened to speechmaking by Congressman Frank Plumley of Washington, Oliver Wilson of Peoria, Ill., master of the national grange, Prof. J. L. Hills of Burlington, director of the Vermont experiment station and dean of the agricultural department of the university of Vermont, A. W. Allen, who represented the Barre Board of Trade, and E. F. Smith of Morrisville, master of the state grange. The occasion was designated as a grange field day and members from every subordinate grange in the Winoski valley and Central Vermont granges were present. It was one of a series of meetings which State Master Smith and National Master Wilson are conducting throughout Vermont, the last one to be held in Hardwick this afternoon.

The weather conditions were ideal for an outdoor gathering, and many of the farmers who attended with their wives and children must have been tempted to stay at home and spend one of the few pleasant days that June has thus far offered in tilling the soil that yesterday's speakers urged them to improve. Something in the way of exhibiting their products was attempted by local farmers, horsemen and dealers in farming implements. The Smith stock farm had a number of blooded cows in the stalls, and horses from the stables of Page Bros. and F. A. Slayton were also on exhibition. A. W. Allen had a display of agricultural tools and automobiles from the Brown Motor Co., and the H. F. Cutler Maxwell agency were on the grounds. During the afternoon, chauffeurs from the two garages were placed at the disposal of the visitors, and many a farmer's wife and children were given a fast spin about the course while the exercises were in progress.

H. M. Farnham of Montpelier acted as chairman of the exercises, introducing the speakers in turn. On behalf of the Barre Board of Trade, A. W. Allen extended a hearty welcome to visiting patrons of husbandry and besought them to visit the Granite city often. He explained the mission of the Board of Trade and said that its prime object was to make one of the busiest trade centers in New England achieve even greater progress. Barre is in the midst of one of the finest farming sections in the country, said Mr. Allen, and he urged the agricultural men of this vicinity to improve their opportunities.

Prof. Hills of the state agricultural college was called upon during the early part of the exercises, and he spoke at some length on the extension work which the university of Vermont is carrying on among the youth of the state. Prof. Hills proved himself a loyal friend to the grangers, and he asked their co-operation in the work which the agricultural college has undertaken.

State Master Smith was the next speaker, and a large part of his address was devoted to emphasizing the opportunities which are awaiting Vermont farmers of to-day. Mr. Smith mentioned some of the bills which are to be introduced in aid of agriculture at the coming session of the legislature, urging his hearers to support these measures in their behalf to the best of their ability. Mr. Smith also touched upon the extension of the agricultural schools of the state. The farmer, he said, is Vermont's greatest asset, and he asserted that the opportunities which await the patrons of husbandry are almost beyond realization. The speaker told of several Vermont farmers who have been signally successful in their undertakings.

Probably the most notable speech of the afternoon was given by Congressman Plumley. The second district's representative in Congress spoke in characteristic style and held the close attention of his audience throughout. His address was shortened to a half-hour to allow him to catch a train north. Congressman Plumley heartily seconded the contention of the previous speakers that many opportunities are facing Vermont farmers, and proceeded to tell of some things which will help the good cause through legislation. He described the methods employed in legislation, saying that the work on the floor of the House was only stage work. The rehearsals in the committee rooms, he asserted, constituted the real work of the sessions.

Congressman Plumley is a member of the committee on agriculture, and he gave an interesting account of work performed by this committee. How to find potash has been one of the many problems facing the committee. Government experts have been sent to every corner of the country in search of a supply to take the place of German potash formerly imported for fertilizing purposes. The desired chemical was at last found in a seaweed known as kelp. Later, government chemists discovered another, inexhaustible supply in the southwestern deserts, so that now the farmers of the United States are no longer dependent upon Germany for this necessary farming adjunct.

He spoke also of the desire on the part of Congress to establish a satisfactory parcels post system, asking the farmers at the same time to bear with the committee on post roads and post-offices in its search for a satisfactory solution of the problem. He asserted that the systems now used in many European countries would be impracticable in this country with its broader areas and different topography. The aim in establishing a parcels post system, he said, was to wrong no one and not to impoverish the treasury.

Congressman Plumley was inclined to doubt the contention that the three Cows which are keeping the parcels post project from realization are the Ameri-

IS ARRESTED
FOR FORGERY

Louis M. Goldstone, Aged 18, is
Held in St. Albans

WAS CAUGHT IN MONTREAL

It Is Alleged That He Passed Bad Check at C. H. Morton's Store in St. Albans, and He May Have Been Mixed Up in Another Case.

St. Albans, June 16.—Chief of Police Mahoney returned last night from Montreal, where he captured Louis M. Goldstone, who is charged with forgery, and will probably be arraigned in the local court later to-day.

Goldstone is 18 years of age and is said to come from Utica, N. Y. He is a buyer of cattle. On June 13, when C. H. Morton's deposits were made at the Franklin County Savings Bank & Trust company, a check for $16.21, signed by the St. Albans Paper Stock company, by Louis Goldstone, was included. This was declared to be a forgery, and the warrant for Goldstone's arrest followed. It is supposed that the store of Harold Cohen also lost $15 by a similar transaction, a check being tendered in payment.

Verdict Given the Defendant.

Woodstock, June 15.—After being out 24 hours, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant to recover $40 in the case of G. W. Gee vs. Town of Hartford. Joseph Canton was fined $150 and sentenced to less than 14 months in the house of correction for carrying a dangerous weapon with intent to do injury.

SURPRISED A BEER PARTY.

Police Arrested Woman Alleged to Have Been Serving the Liquid.

Chief of Police Sinclair, Officer George K. Carle and Deputy Sheriff J. J. Slayton made a quick trip to West Patterson street in the latter's automobile yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and there swooped down upon the house at No. 50, occupied by the family of John Dornjiv. The officers came entirely unheralded, for it is said that six men were seated around a table drinking beer when the raid began. Chief Sinclair held the search and seizure warrant, and the hunt for contraband goods revealed a half-barrel nearly empty of beer, a pitcher partly full of beer, and other utensils used in serving the beverage. Beer glasses and pitchers, together with the beer, were seized and brought to the police station. Mrs. Dornjiv, who is alleged to have been doing out the beer to her visitors, was arrested on a charge of selling. When arraigned last night, she furnished bail of $500, and her hearing was set for Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

The corridors of the city building were thronged this morning with witnesses subpoenaed in the cases of State vs. Lila Dodge of Woodbury, charged with selling illegally, and Clarence Goodell of Calais, who was arrested on a warrant charging him with open and gross lewdness. The cases were tried before Justice of the Peace H. W. Scott, and State's Attorney J. Ward Carver prosecuted. Owing to the unsavory nature of the testimony introduced in the Goodell case, spectators and such witnesses as were not being used on the stand were excluded from the courtroom. Goodell was the first to be arraigned, and the case against Lila Dodge was scheduled to follow.

SOME REFUSED TO PAY

Because They Were Jammed 112 Strong Into a Closed Street Car.

Incensed at the failure of the street car company to furnish enough cars for the crowd returning from the music festival at Montpelier, some of the 112 passengers on the 10 o'clock car out of Montpelier last night refused to pay their fares. It was a closed car and the people were jammed into every bit of available space, women being compelled to stand as well as the men. Had it been an open car, conditions would not have been so bad as, in that case, the passengers could have clung to the running-board and perhaps sat on the fender.

However, the passengers could see no reason why the company could not have put on an extra car, inasmuch as they must have known of the large number of people attending the festival, since one car alone, going to Montpelier, carried 103 passengers. The returning trip was a case of failure to accommodate the public when a little effort would have done so; and the company was severely criticized for its lack of attention to the needs of the traveling public.

IS ARRESTED
FOR FORGERY

Louis M. Goldstone, Aged 18, is
Held in St. Albans

WAS CAUGHT IN MONTREAL

It Is Alleged That He Passed Bad Check at C. H. Morton's Store in St. Albans, and He May Have Been Mixed Up in Another Case.

St. Albans, June 16.—Chief of Police Mahoney returned last night from Montreal, where he captured Louis M. Goldstone, who is charged with forgery, and will probably be arraigned in the local court later to-day.

Goldstone is 18 years of age and is said to come from Utica, N. Y. He is a buyer of cattle. On June 13, when C. H. Morton's deposits were made at the Franklin County Savings Bank & Trust company, a check for $16.21, signed by the St. Albans Paper Stock company, by Louis Goldstone, was included. This was declared to be a forgery, and the warrant for Goldstone's arrest followed. It is supposed that the store of Harold Cohen also lost $15 by a similar transaction, a check being tendered in payment.

Woodstock, June 15.—After being out 24 hours, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant to recover $40 in the case of G. W. Gee vs. Town of Hartford. Joseph Canton was fined $150 and sentenced to less than 14 months in the house of correction for carrying a dangerous weapon with intent to do injury.

SURPRISED A BEER PARTY.

Police Arrested Woman Alleged to Have Been Serving the Liquid.

Chief of Police Sinclair, Officer George K. Carle and Deputy Sheriff J. J. Slayton made a quick trip to West Patterson street in the latter's automobile yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and there swooped down upon the house at No. 50, occupied by the family of John Dornjiv. The officers came entirely unheralded, for it is said that six men were seated around a table drinking beer when the raid began. Chief Sinclair held the search and seizure warrant, and the hunt for contraband goods revealed a half-barrel nearly empty of beer, a pitcher partly full of beer, and other utensils used in serving the beverage. Beer glasses and pitchers, together with the beer, were seized and brought to the police station. Mrs. Dornjiv, who is alleged to have been doing out the beer to her visitors, was arrested on a charge of selling. When arraigned last night, she furnished bail of $500, and her hearing was set for Monday morning at 9 o'clock.
